From the Desk of the

FINANCIAL SECRETARY

My Brothers:

I hope everyone had a very Blessed and Merry Christmas. My family did.

It is hard to believe that 2023 is over. Where did it go? We held three Tootsie Roll Drives at our local Publix Supermarkets and did very well collecting almost $3,000 to help our Citizens with Disabilities Campaign. We also held our Veterans Supplies Collection and our parishioners donated a fantastic amount of toiletries and clothing. We held our Hot Breakfasts and they were well attended. Proceeds went to the New Roof Loan. We had three Lenten Fish Fries that were complete successes.. Check our activities calendar in our Newsletter and see what you can do to help your Council.

Please keep in your prayers all those who have died this past year.

We will have another Hot Breakfast this month on January 21. We are going to add hash browns to our breakfast of scrambled eggs, sausage links, pancakes, fruit and yogurt bar, juice and coffee. Join us if you can. It will be after the 9 am Mass in the St. Joseph Room.

Lent starts early this year. It begins on Valentine's Day, February 14. Coming up is our Lenten Fish Fries beginning the first Friday after Ash Wednesday, which is February 16, followed by the Easter Egg Hunt on Easter Sunday, March 31

The Council and Assembly get together on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month for Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament in the Chapel following the 8:30 morning mass. Join us if you can fit it in your schedule. This month it will be January 10 and 24.

If you volunteer at any of our events, you are required by the diocese to get fingerprinted and pass the Safe Environment courses on the diocesan web page. Check your email for the instructions on how to get fingerprinted and take the courses.

Whatever traditions you follow, may you have a healthy, safe and prosperous 2024!

God Bless,

John Devaux,
Financial Secretary

Did You Know?

Happy New Year! I hope all of you had a joyous and merry Christmas.

All of us start the new year afresh. We make resolutions. Let's plan now to look back at the end of 2024 and be able to say, "I kept those resolutions to improve myself, to improve my relationship with my family and friends, and my relationship with God!" An improved prayer life is the goal of many. I know I've made that resolution almost every year. Some years I do better than others.

But here are a few things I've found about making resolutions that helped me.

First, I don't want to make a resolution that is not possible to keep. I've got to be realistic. I can't go to an extreme. For example, to improve my prayer life, I can't go from praying for 15 minutes in the morning to reading a chapter of the Bible, attending daily Mass, reciting the rosary, and saying the Liturgy of the Hours each day. For me, that's too much of a jump. I'm going to follow that for a day or two and then something will get me off track. Myself, I need to take baby steps. Maybe start with saying the rosary each day. I've got to make my resolution achievable.

The same is true of all those other resolutions we make.

I can't go from being a couch potato to running six miles a day...but I could start by walking a mile each day as an achievable step in that direction.

I can't starve myself trying to lose weight...but I could cut out snacks between meals as a start. Again, an achievable step.

I might want to read more, so I can start by reading a chapter a day in a book.

You get the idea. The resolution has to be reasonable, achievable, and specific.

Now here is one resolution that is reasonable, achievable, and specific: Resolve to meet with me to update the information on your family's financial needs analysis. (Or maybe you need to complete a financial needs analysis.) Let's see where you stand. Your financial health is critical to your family's future security. As your field agent I'm charged to meet with each of my members each year. We can take a look at your goals and aspirations and make sure you're on track to keep your family appropriately protected.

I'll contact you soon to see if an appointment should be our next step.

Vivat Jesus!

Faith Director's Message

Dan Winfield

Just Say Yes!!!

"And Mary kept all these things, reflecting on them in her heart." (Luke 2:19) How often have I heard these words proclaimed? The frequency with which they have been spoken has dulled my ability to absorb the message, one that could possibly change my own heart. Our Lady was a simple woman, certainly not emotionally complex, yet profoundly pure of heart. Her emptiness of self-created the chasm that was necessary for deep pondering of the heart. Do I have that same emptiness? I often allow the clamor of the world to overpower the still, small voice of the Lord speaking to me through the wonders and miracles of life. But the Blessed Mother did not allow a single second of life to slip through her without meaningful reflection. It was that introspection that led her to constantly praise God for His limitless fountain of love that showered upon her heart daily. I long to emulate Our Lady's purity of heart and her emptiness of spirit that allowed God to permeate every fiber of her being. I want the distractions and noise from the outside world to lessen so that I, too, can have a heart that is always open and ready to receive God in the form of a whisper or a soft breeze, a hug from children or spring's first flower.

Ponder:

What excess emotional baggage, material junk, or even digital clutter can I eliminate from my life today so that my heart will more closely resemble the heart of Mary – empty, pure, grateful, and ready to say yes to God?

Pray:

Dearest Blessed Mother, give me a heart that is open and receptive to God's gifts, His love, His pruning, and new life itself.

The Magi were like the Prophet Daniel
The Magi were most likely believers in Yahweh and the Coming Messiah
They came from a country in the East
There might have been more than 3 Wise Men
The gifts made Joseph, Mary, and Jesus Wealthy
Herod feared and respected the Magi
The Magi were not at the Birth of Jesus
The Magi believed God spoke in Dreams
In the 3rd Century, is When the Magi Were Considered Kings
Only the Gospel of Matthew Mentions the Magi

Frankincense and Myrrh Are Resins

Both frankincense and myrrh are resins derived from tree sap. During ancient times, these aromatic resins were valuable commodities.

Frankincense

Frankincense is a milky white resin extracted from the Boswellia tree, or Frankincense tree, which thrives in arid, cool areas of the Arabian Peninsula, East Africa and India.

The finest and most aromatic of this species is Boswellia sacra, a small tree that grows in Somalia, Oman and Yemen. These plants, which grow to a height of 16 feet (5 meters), have papery bark, sparse bunches of paired leaves, and flowers with white petals and a yellow or red center.

Myrrh

Myrrh resin is a reddish color and comes from species of the genus Commiphora, which is native to northeast Africa and the adjacent areas of the Arabian Peninsula. Commiphora myrrha, a tree commonly used in the production of myrrh, grows best in the shallow, rocky soils of Ethiopia, Kenya, Oman, Saudi Arabia and Somalia. It boasts spiny branches with sparse leaves that grow in groups of three and can reach 9 feet (3 meters).

Resin Extraction

The processes for extracting the resins of Boswellia (for frankincense) and Commiphora (for myrrh) are nearly identical. Harvesters make a longitudinal cut in the tree's trunk, which pierces gum resin reservoirs within the bark.

The sap slowly oozes from the cut and drips down the tree, forming tear-shaped droplets left to harden on the side of the tree. Harvesters collect the hard resin after two weeks.

A Brief History of Frankincense and Myrrh

People have produced frankincense and myrrh for some 5,000 years. For much of this time, these aromatic resins were the region's most important commodity, with a trade network that reached across Africa, Asia and Europe.

Today, the demand for frankincense and myrrh has subsided, but numerous Chinese, Greek, Latin and Sanskrit sources remind us of their past importance in the ancient world.

Personal Care

In a time before daily bathing, people would use the smoke from the resins to make themselves smell better. Egyptian women utilized the ash of burned frankincense resin as makeup, mixing it into their eye shadow.

Ceremony

Ancient religious ceremonies and burials often incorporated frankincense and myrrh. According to the Greek writer Herodotus, the Egyptians used frankincense and myrrh to prepare animal sacrifices and human mummies. Hebrews and Christians incorporated the resins into their ceremonies in the third century B.C.E. and fourth century C.E., respectively.

Health Benefits

For thousands of years, people used frankincense and myrrh as medicine. In the Ebers papyrus of 1500 B.C.E., priests recommended both resins for treating wounds. Other ailments frankincense and myrrh reportedly cured include hemlock poisoning, leprosy, worms, snakebites, diarrhea, plague, scurvy and even baldness.

Trade

The high demand for frankincense and myrrh created a booming trade in the Middle East, lasting several hundred years. In the first century, around the height of the trade, Pliny the Elder claimed that Arabia produced approximately 1,680 tons (1,524 metric tons) of frankincense and around 448 tons (406 metric tons) of myrrh each year.

One of the most important resin trade centers surrounded the Shisr oasis in southern Oman. This outpost exported frankincense across Mesopotamia, India and China from about 300 B.C.E. to the third century C.E. The ruins of the settlement remain as a UNESCO World Heritage site known as "The Land of Frankincense."

In the Bible

These resins were widely available when the three wise men visited the baby Jesus around 5 B.C.E. and would have been considered practical gifts with many uses. The expensive resins were symbolic as well.

Frankincense, often burned, symbolized prayer rising to the heavens like smoke, while myrrh, often used in embalming, symbolized death. Scholars think that frankincense was presented to baby Jesus to represent his later role as a high priest for believers, while myrrh symbolized his eventual death and burial.

Frankincense and Myrrh Today

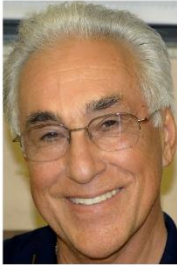

Frankincense and myrrh may not be as popular as they once were, but they're still used today in ways you might not expect. Their essential oils are used in modern perfumes and cosmetics, continuing a tradition that has lasted thousands of years. You can also buy frankincense essential oil on its own (the same goes for myrrh essential oil) or resins to burn.

Traditional Chinese Medicine and Ayurvedic medicine have employed frankincense and myrrh for centuries, and scientists continue to explore new medicinal uses.

A 2016 study found frankincense was a good anti-inflammatory (which can help with pain relief), and a 2019 study suggests that frankincense and myrrh essential oils may have analgesic effects. The researchers of the latter study determined that when the two are combined, they have amazing anti-inflammatory and anti-cancer pharmacological effects, though they acknowledged more studies are needed to verify the synergistic efficacy.

Take advantage of life insurance, annuities, disability income and long-term care insurance products that meet your needs, fit your budget and provide guaranteed protection for your family.

We've been through troubled times before. World War I, The Great Depression, World War II, and the ups and downs of the '60s, '70s and '80s. We weathered these storms, and this current one is no exception. We stand strong thanks to our history of making sound financial choices and avoiding unstable markets.

How strong are we? Don't take our word for it, ask the A.M. Best Company, a third party firm that has given us their superior rating of A+ for over 40 years. Or you can look at the fact that in a world of layoffs and downsizing, we are contracting new agents.
